

WELCOME TO ARCHERY GB'S 2011 YEARBOOK

This is a booklet designed to acknowledge the many outstanding achievements by many archers over the past 12 months, and to put on record the winners and competitors at our big events of the year, such as the UK Masters and the GNAM tournament – both highlights of the annual calendar.

Not forgetting, of course, our National Series championship, which has made a big impact since its launch two years ago. The glory of tournaments like the GNAM and the National Series, is that anyone can take part, whatever your standard – and if you are a club archer standing along the line alongside the likes of Alison Williamson or Simon Terry, then you will always be encouraged by them, and benefit from the experience.

I am a club archer, and I love taking part in these national competitions. OK, so these days, I am unlikely to be among the prize winners, but that is not the point of taking part. I enter competitions because I love shooting, I love the camaraderie, and I thrive on the experience.

So whatever standard you shoot at, do not ever be put off entering our national competitions. It really is great fun, you are always among friends, and you will benefit from the experience, be it through learning from others and improving your performances, or by relishing the togetherness of being involved in an archery shoot.

Archery is a wonderful sport. An inclusive sport; and the ultimate sport for all. I know that because I have been involved in it as an archer, a judge, a club official for over 30 years, and, over the past 12 months, as Chairman of our National Governing Body.

So I will end by congratulating everyone who has taken part in one of our national events, not just the winners. I hope that seeing your name in print inspires you to give it a go again... and again.

I wish you great shooting!

Dave

THE YEAR IN ARCHERY

Words: Peter Jones Photos: Dean Alberga

Among the many virtues of taking up archery is the camaraderie and fun of club nights. But further down the line, the irresistible urge to discover a competitive edge often consumes many enthusiasts, and this Yearbook is designed to highlight some of the outstanding achievements of many archers over the past 12 months.

From the top down, British archery had much to be proud of in 2010. The undoubted highlight were the medals won at the Commonwealth Games: the individual compound golds of Nicky Hunt and Duncan Busby, the individual recurve silver of Alison Williamson, the men's and women's team golds in the compound tournaments, and the women's recurve team silver medal.

In the World Cup, Simon Terry and Nicky Hunt both qualified for the Grand Final at Edinburgh as of right, and though there were to be no medals at the 2010 FITA extravaganza, all six GB archers taking part did themselves proud. Nicky arrived at Edinburgh as the new world number one, but not even her top ranking could prevent her losing a thrilling first round match to GB colleague Andrea Gales.

The National Series was another great success, culminating in a great day of archery at the Grand Final in Leamington. Rob Hallworth knocked harder on the international door as he went all the way to the final, and actually was in one arrow of sensationally taking the men's recurve title, before Simon Terry fought back to win for the second year running. Sam Meadows made the women's recurve final four, but Naomi Folkard took the title, with Chris White and Nichola Simpson winning the compound.

And so to the National Indoor Championships at Telford in December, held over the same weekend, and at the same venue as the Junior Indoor Championships. What a great weekend of archery, some eyebrow-raising results throughout the two days, and enormous enthusiasm throughout the hall.

But that's archery – enthusiasm all around. Which makes it a wonderful sport, and a consuming pastime!

THE OFFICIAL TARGET ARCHERY RANKINGS 2010

A total of 425 archers completed the required shoots for the rankings in 2010, another significant year-on-year increase. There were 85 relevant world record status events held in the UK and details were recorded from 19 events held abroad. Just over 1700 different members attended the shoots.

In addition to compound and recurve listings, the rankings for 2010 include lists for longbow and barebow archers for the first time; although relatively few in number, these archers now have an official ranking. In a change from previous years, the actual score from the Olympic rounds was not used as the round is now shot in sets, but archers were required to participate in these shoots. Note this means that scores could be up to 240 points lower than last year.

The names at the top of the lists will be familiar to many and there are few surprises in the lists. The leading recurve archers, Simon Terry and Naomi Folkard, continue to hold their positions with authority. For the compounds, after 10 years at the top, Chris White has been dislodged into second place in the gentlemen's list by Duncan Busby – but only just. Nicky Hunt retains her position in the ladies' list.

One archer appears in both the recurve and compound lists – Dot Cooper of Lichfield. Although visually impaired, she has vision enough to aim at the target and so competes on an equal footing with other archers.

In the lists that follow, the points gained represent each archer's best three ladies / gents FITA rounds and best two FITA 70m rounds all from shoots with World Record Status. In addition, archers are required to shoot 2 separate Olympic rounds each associated with a World Record Status qualification round.

MAGICAL MEDAL MILESTONES IN 2010

Words: Sara Symington, Archery GB Performance Director

It is two years now since I first came on board as Archery GB's Performance Director, and as I look at the list of medal winners at international competitions in 2010, I am proud of all the achievements of our archers abroad.

The highlights had to be the medal winning performances at the Commonwealth Games, but I must single out Andy Rikunenko's gold medal success at the European Championships, and the 10 medals won by our Paralympians at their European Championships, proving yet again how successful they continue to be.

We now have fantastic facilities for our archers at Lilleshall, and since our move to the Sutherland Hall offices in 2009, the changes have been fast and wonderful. We are all very proud of what we have there now, and if you think it only natural than I fly the flag, then our facilities have also been endorsed by Hugh Robertson, the Minister of Sport, and the Secretary of State for Culture, Jeremy Hunt, who have both visited us over the past 12 months.

We have another big year ahead, including World Championships this summer. But for our recurve archers and Paralympians, all roads lead to London 2012, and the Olympic / Paralympic Games, with all our archers fighting hard for the privilege of representing Great Britain. It will be the opportunity of a lifetime, and I am expecting healthy competition for places. As it should be!

Lloyd Brown has made a big impact as our Olympic Coach, and is doing some great work. Around Lloyd we have a fantastic support team in place, all of whom make a considerable input, and can feel rightly proud of their contribution to the continued success.

I would also like to thank Stephanie Kelly and Hollie Jones for the day to day role they play in making the Performance Unit tick along smoothly. Their hard work and efficiency is appreciated by us all. The great basketball player Michael Jordan once said: "Some people want it to happen, some wish it would happen, and others make it happen."

That we won 26 gold, 38 silver and 18 bronze medals in 2010 rather tells its own story.
